

Jill Conklin Named SNA 2010 Individual Industry Member of the Year

Louisville, Kentucky. July 2010 - Winston Industries is proud to announce that Sales Development Manager, Jill Conklin, is the 8th recipient of the 2010 School Nutrition Association (SNA) Individual Industry Member of the Year Award.

SNA Nutrition Committee Chair Julia Bauscher, SNS, nominated Conklin for her “dedication to the school nutrition profession” and her “special passion to support members in serving children worldwide.” Bauscher went on to note that Conklin is “a catalyst and leader who immediately asks, ‘What can I do to help?’”

Ms. Conklin has indeed worked tirelessly in support of school nutrition professionals worldwide, both as an individual and in her position with Winston Industries. She has more than nine years experience in professional foodservice, including seven years as a chef. She devotes time to Kid’s First, a Team Nutrition program, teaching nutrition and culinary skills to school foodservice personnel, teachers, administrators, and kids K-12. In addition to the boards and committees on which she serves, she is a very active supporter of the Global Child Nutrition Foundation (GCNF), SNA’s International arm. She also volunteers with Sustainable Farms and local farm cooperatives, and is active with the USDA - Therny Campaign, the National Coalition for Food Safe Schools.

The award will be presented to Ms. Conklin during the SNA’s 64th Annual National Conference in Dallas, Texas on Tuesday, June 13, 2010. Conklin, along with the 2010 Outstanding Director of the Year, will also be honored at the Global Child Nutrition Foundation’s A Possible Dream Gala in March 2011 in Washington, DC.
